

Minister: Firefighters showed great courage

The congregation of Skidaway Island United Methodist Church would like to thank the Skidaway Island First Responders, Southside Fire Department and Savannah-Chatham County police for their help with the emergency at our church Aug. 2.

The fire department should great courage in putting out the fire to our educational wing. The effective response by all three groups diminished the damage to the church and ensured the safety of those who were observing the fire.

We also thank area churches for their prayers and offers to help. Members of our community who are not part of our church also offered condolences.

It was very humbling to have people reach out in our time of need. May God bless you.
